

To Whom It May Concern:

April 24, 2008

I hope and pray that the freedom of speech will not be taken away from any of us who claim to be real Americans. The way I see this issue is that if I don't want to listen to Howard Stern (or anyone else that brings no worth to the table in my eyes)...that's my prerogative and I don't have to tune into his program. I don't bother him or any other person who wants to speak their mind, even if I don't agree with them. If I'm invited to share my opinion...I might do so, but I don't feel its right to interrupt a program like Air1 that brings us Christians such happiness. If we want your opinion...we'll ask. If you want to create a radio station that informs "followers of your own kind", then that is your right.

Please respect our right to enjoy and praise our Lord and to continue to fellowship and encourage one another through this AWESOME station. It has brought comfort and relief to every one of us who have tuned in to this radio station. May God bless you and open your heart to the truth.

In His Grip!
